Mississippi Power officials answer trimming questions

BY TRACI BONNEY
Two Mississippi Power Company officials got a mixed reception Thursday when they met with members of the Hancock County Historical Society to answer questions about recent tree trimming in Bay St. Louis. While most of the society members in attendance politely listened and asked their questions, others unabashedly showed their anger and gave no indication of accepting the power company officials' explanations.

Senior forester Terry Frierson and engineering technician Maurice "Poochie" Wescovich attended the luncheon meeting at the society's invitation following a recent commotion about the trimming done by Farren's Tree Surgeons on the Live Oak in front of the now-closed Angie's Restaurant (the old Landmark building).

Frierson said the company is on a three-year trimming cycle because it is more economical to trim every three years than to wait longer between trimmings, and because the company normally does not have to trim as much off each tree that way.

This time, he added, the company is trimming more off the trees so they can upgrade their power lines from 4,000 volts to 13,000.

A 4,000-volt line will burn a hole in a limb if the two come in contact, Frierson said, but a 13,000-volt line will blow up and cause a power loss if a limb hits it.

Frierson said he knew some people would like to see the power company put its lines underground; however, it would cost about 10 times as much as above-ground lines, and the company would still have to work around the trees — in this case, their roots.

Frierson, who is a member of the Urban Forestry Council, said the power company's awareness of the need to be careful in dealing with trees is recent. He commented that until a few years ago, power companies didn't really consider the trees.

He also reaffirmed the power company's position that it wants to work with the community in the tree trimming, because the trimming will occur every few years.

"We don't want a war with the Historical Society or any one of the other 200,000 customers we have with Mississippi Power Company. We want to work with you and be a part of your community."

Wescovich, who is in charge of the tree trimming crews, got a round of laughter and

Flipped

Fire and police officials survey the damage after the truck driven by Brock Godwin, 26, of 301 Ballentine St., went out of control and flipped on Hwy. 90 near Hancock Medical Center around 1 a.m. Thursday. According to a police report, Godwin was eastbound on Hwy. 90 when he lost control of the truck, which ran onto the right shoulder of the road, hit two mailboxes, crossed both lanes of traffic, went up onto the median, flipped and landed upside down in the westbound lane of the highway. Bay St. Louis Police Officer David Parker said Godwin was cited for reckless driving and DUI. He was also transported to HMC. Officer Richard Hannah is in charge of the investigation. ASRM injunction to be decided Tuesday

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Whether or not the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) may continue with the construction of the Advanced Solid Rocket Motor (ASRM) testing site at Stennis Space Center will be decided Tuesday at the Federal Court-house in Biloxi.

A preliminary injunction hearing will be conducted by Judge Walter J. Gex III at 9 a.m. He will make a decision on the necessity of the injunction by reviewing briefs from both sides, explained court personnel.

The lawsuit, filed by the Sierra Club Legal Defense Fund Inc. for the local group, "Citizens for a Healthy Environment," names as defendants the U.S. Corps of Engineers, NASA and the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

According to the Legal Defense Fund, permit guidelines for the use of the wetlands requires that NASA prove that "no non-wetland site is available for the project."

The lawsuit claims that the United States Corps of Engineers simply accepted Stennis as the only site for the testing, despite NASA's consideration for one other potential site, which also contains wetlands.

Robert Wiygul of the Sierra Club Legal Defense Fund stated that at this time the defense fund is representing Citizens for a Healthy Environment on only the wetlands issue.

The federal government's brief was to be given to Gex by noon Friday and the Sierra Club Legal Defense Fund brief is expected in Gex's office by noon Monday.

Tuesday morning Gex may or may not ask for testimony, depending on whether he feels the need for additional

Bay council approves feasibility contract

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Bay St. Louis City Council authorized the mayor to sign a contract with Buckhurst Fish Hutton Katz Inc. and Economics Research Associates for a comprehensive gaming feasibility/design guidelines/zoning study.

City consultant/liaison Jules Lagarde said Friday, "Relieved" is the word. Now we can get to work.

Lagarde said the first step for the consultants is to assemble a land use map to compare with the zoning map. "This will allow us to see how the land is actually used compared to how it's zoned. I think that's one of the most important first steps."

He said he will continue to meet with agencies and gather information to send to Paul Buckhurst and Hawkins Stearn, and will work with the consultants to further define their schedule, with an August 1 or 2 public hearing in mind.

Lagarde also hopes that the city officials will meet in the near future with the State Gaming Commission and its director, Royal P. Walker Jr., to inform the commission about the city's activities.

The council, in approving the contract, also hired the consultants to conduct a feasibility study for the proposed annexation of the Bay Cove Harbour area in Cedar Point.

In another annexation-related matter, the council authorized Jimmy Chiniche to draw up the legal descriptions of the area under consideration for annexation.

Sewerage, water improvements closer to reality for Waveland

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Ward 1 Alderman Barbara Rappold read the bids from nine different construction companies Wednesday for water and sewerage improvements to that area of Waveland from the Bay St. Louis city line to Nicholson Avenue.

A $1.3 million FHA loan for improvements was appropriated last fall.

Included with the water and sewerage improvements is the construction of a new water well for the city, thereby upgrading services throughout the city.

Following the opening and reading of each bid price, Rappold said it appeared GMR Construction of Bay St. Louis was the low bidder.

The bids were taken under advisement to be reviewed by the city attorney and the respective department heads.

Contract awarding for the project is expected at the July 2 city meeting.

Rappold said she initiated the project almost five years ago and was elated to see it nearing reality.

The board gave approval for the city to advertise for an hydraulic ditcher attachment for street department usage.

Mayor Stella Filot said the cost for the ditcher would be approximately $8,000, which the city has in the current budget.

The board also approved advertisement for the purchase of two pick-up trucks for the fire department. Again, the funds for the purchase were said to be available through the present budget.

Filot told the board that the city had hired a full-time mechanic within the last few weeks and now wished to lease a building where he might be

Fire marshal lauds local volunteers

BY TRACI BONNEY

Deputy State Fire Marshal David Dry had nothing but praise for the Post 58 and Lee-town volunteer fire departments, for their handling of a Wednesday attic fire.

County Fire Marshal Jay

Marsh said the fire started about 4:14 p.m. Wednesday in a building on Caesar-Necaise Road that housed two businesses, a catfish restaurant and a beauty parlor. Marsh reported that the fire began in the electric panel box, then moved into the kitchen area and the attic. He said the fire departments stopped the fire with some smoke damage but little else.

"They did a wonderful job of containing the fire and getting stationed.

The board approved the leasing of a building for $450, which includes the cost of utilities.

The board approved to pay $223 in entry fees for the three-year-old daughter of Tish Poyadon in a beauty contest.

Ward 2 Alderman Bob Hubbard made the motion and Rapold seconded it, on the condition the child wore a banner with the city name and that the city be listed as her sponsor.

Ward 4 Alderman Stan Weidman voted in approval with the other two aldermen. Ward 3 Alderman Curtis P. "Phil" Colson was absent.

The board approved the spending of $50 for renewal of advertising on the Waveland Little League ball park fence sign.

A street dedication was rejected when the board took no action on a proposal for the city to assume possession of a private road which runs along Hwy. 90 from the National Supermarket parking lot to Old Spanish Trail, minus the section crossing Lil'Ray's Restaurant.

Waveland resident Noel Phillips stood before the board and addressed Weidman early in the meeting concerning comments made by the alderman at a previous meeting.

Phillips spoke of the city charter and said, "Nowhere does the charter describe an alderman's duties to be that of an auditor."

Phillips said Weidman was scaring business away and ruining the city's reputation through bad publicity.

Weidman responded, defending his role as the taxpayer's watchdog and spoke of his need for a complete listing of employees and verification that every job paid for is performed.

Bay-Waveland school board members disagree on capital expenditures

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Bay-Waveland School District members chose not to include a dollar figure for capital expenditures in its proposed 1991-92 budget during Tuesday's public hearing.

Board member Charles "Chuck" Benvenuti proposed that the board include a $70,000 figure for an athletic field house and for landscaping and planting of sod at Bay High School, the paving of the parking area at Waveland Elementary School, and the paving of a dirt area along Bay Middle School Superintendent Robert Magee suggested if the board was going to consider projects to be included in the new budget, they consider air-conditioning the remaining three school cafeterias that are without air-conditioning at this time.

Benvenuti suggested the board allocate an additional $30,000 to the figure he first named, thereby rounding out $100,000 as a beginning figure for needed work.

Board president Linda Penrose said she would like for the board to meet with the school administrators to hear their input as to what projects they deem as most needed before setting a figure amount.

Member Gary Yarborough also expressed a desire to "prioritize the district's needs" before including a dollar figure for capital expenditures.

Benvenuti told the board, "The budget is a roadmap for the coming year... what we anticipate doesn't definitely mean we will spend it."

Benvenuti also spoke to board members of refinancing several small loans as one larger loan, thereby obtaining a lower rate of interest.

Member Gary Yarborough expressed a preference to remain with the present financial arrangements, saying the district would save money as the separate loans are paid out.

Magee was instructed by the board to research the cost of the mentioned capital expenditure projects, gather input from transportation superintendent W.J. Cameron and individual school administrators and report back to the board.

Bay St. Louis logo wins bronze in Neenah paperworks competition

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Prime Time Group of Gulfport won a bronze award recently in the Neenah Paper Paperworks Competition for the new Bay St. Louis city logo.

The logo — Bay Saint Louis/A Place Apart — was printed on Neenah Environment 25 writing paper and was both embossed and foil stamped.

The Prime Time Group was commissioned by the City of Bay St. Louis several months ago to design a distinctive mark for use on city stationery and business cards, as well as city signs. That logo was unveiled and adopted in April.

Mayor Edward Favre, Clerk of Council Mike Cuevas and Municipal Clerk Kay Johnson met with Prime Time's Ted Riemann on a regular basis after the company was commissioned.

BAY SAINT LOUIS
A PLACE APART

After researching the project thoroughly, Riemann presented Favre, Johnson and Cuevas with a list of slogans. The three-member committee narrowed the list to four, then chose "A Place Apart."

Cuevas said the committee settled on "A Place Apart" because they felt that slogan best conveyed all the messages the city wants to project. "It got the message across most effectively and fit best in all the categories, including business and tourism."

While the committee discussed the slogan, Riemann and the Prime Time artists worked on designs. Of eight designs originally proposed, two were immediately chosen by all three committee members.

One design featured the city's name in a calligraphic style, while the other was in a more modern type style. Johnson and Cuevas liked the calligraphic design, but they agreed with Favre that it did not completely convey the strength they wanted the logo to project.

The committee also wanted the word "Saint" in Bay St. Louis to be spelled out. Cuevas said the calligraphic design lost its power with it spelled out. The other design was chosen.

Cuevas said Monday she was pleased with the news of the award.

"I think it's wonderful that it's doing so well. I'm glad that other people are seeing in it what we originally saw when we selected it."

Riemann said he is pleased at the win, both for his company and for the city.

"It's a good example of how a good idea can go a long way, as this one did."

Three injured north of Kiln in 603 collision

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The collision of a United Parcel Service (UPS) truck and a passenger car four mile north of Kiln resulted in injuries to three people Thursday morning.

Mississippi State Trooper Sergeant Hershel Ladner reported that the 1985 LTD Ford driven by Marilyn Necaise of Pass Christian apparently veered across the center line as it traveled south on Hwy. 603 impacting with the north bound UPS truck van driven by Daniel R. Chandler of Gulfport, forcing the truck to skid into the grassy shoulder of the road and flip onto its right side, while the Ford spun to face the opposite direction on the highway.

Though both drivers and Necaise's passenger, a 2-year old child, wore seat belts at the time of the accident, Ladner said the child was not in a proper restraining device.

Ladner stated that the child suffered a concussion, Necaise had cuts to the head and a broken foot and Chandler complained of internal injuries along with cuts about the head and legs.

He added that they were all three taken to Gulfport Memorial Hospital by Mobile Medic.

ON PATROL

BURGLARY

Bay St. Louis Police Officer David Parker reported the arrest Sunday of Joseph Henry, 30, 752-D Washington, on a charge of burglary of an occupied dwelling.

Parker said an anonymous call made around 11:55 a.m. Sunday reported the burglary of a residence on Kathy Drive. Upon arriving on the scene, Officer Terry Eley found that the back bedroom was ransacked and $240 was missing.

According to the report, several people were interviewed at the scene and Henry was later apprehended.

Henry is currently in the Hancock County jail under a $15,000 bond, Parker said.

information.

Gex is expected to address strictly the wetlands issue as he decides if NASA should continue with site preparation prior to settlement of the law suit.

At present, NASA has voluntarily ceased clearing the 150 acres of trees and shrubs at the designated testing site. NASA claims to have not yet begun the fill in of the 70 acres of wetlands.

Wiygul said the local group addresses other problems with ASRM testing at Stennis, but at this time the Legal Defense Fund is still reviewing those other complaints.

Lydia Schultz, president of Citizens for a Healthy Environment said, representation by the Sierra Club Legal Defense Fund is a major accomplishment for the local citizens group. "It will lend credibility, legal expertise, and power to our battle to stop this insidious plan of NASA."

Schultz issued a plea for financial assistance with the out-of-pocket expenses and issued a call for all interested parties to meet in front of the Federal Court House at 8:30 a.m. on Tuesday.

Police Record

The following incidents and misdemeanor arrests were reported by the Bay St. Louis Police Department for the period of June 17 to 21:

- 2 contempt of court
- 6 disorderly conduct
- 4 simple assault
- 1 bad check
- 1 DUI
- 1 runaway
- 3 public drunk
- 5 curfew violations
- 3 shoplifting
- 1 reckless driving

Petty bickering must cease at Waveland meetings

The time has come for the elected officials and residents of Waveland to settle their differences, so the day-to-day operations of the city can be addressed. Far too much time is wasted at city meetings repeatedly arguing the same issues.

The charter of the City of Waveland gives certain duties and powers to the mayor and certain powers and duties to the aldermen.

Some operations of the city are under the control of the mayor, and every decision she makes does not have to be evaluated by an alderman, aldermen or constituent in search of a flaw.

The residents have to show patience with the new administration, too, and give it time to work on the many problems which have developed because of the excessive rains.

The mayor and aldermen have to work together in order to address the many problems the growing city faces.

Waveland has been a progressive city, but, it cannot continue to move forward unless the petty bickering which continues to plague this administration comes to an end.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Are looking for a job, or, are you looking for an employee?

Some of you may not be aware the Mississippi Employment Service is now open on Wednesdays and Thursdays.

The hours are 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. and the office is located at the new Hancock County Human Resources Complex on Longfellow Road next to the Civic Center.

Many of you may also be interested to knowing that Ann Ladner is once again managing the Hancock County office on those two days. She works in the Biloxi office on Mondays, Tuesdays and Fridays.

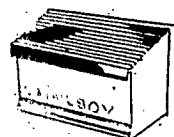

I am glad our officials were able to have the much needed employment placement center open in Hancock County once again. Hopefully, down the road, it will return to being open five days a week.

There is a difference of night and day between the old facility and the modern facilities now used by the employment service in Hancock County.

It is a lot more convenient for those seeking employment to report to a local office rather than one in Biloxi, just as it is easier for the employers to work with someone on a local basis.

I am very glad to see Ann Ladner once again serving the job needs of Hancock Countians.

Keep up the good work, Ann.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

What's in the cards for Bay St. Louis?

Dear Editor:

The "forthcoming fabulous floating fortunes" promise growth and progress for area property and small business owners; W. C. Fields, "Don't Let 'em bamboozle ya son," growth and progress are double meaning "buzz words" which really mean "profit," and never drink nittin' stronger than gin before breakfast either.

These big Mr. Dough Money-bags trying to pull the wool over our eyes care about as much about preserving American small town history and culture as a gambler does his ethics or virtue.

The county's voters are the real gamblers in this deal, since they're the ones playing with the greatest odds—their community. We can't be playing with a full deck if we're going to gamble away every worthy aspect of our community on a lousy low-down vice and prostitution gambling ring's integrity.

Where did the notion that

Bay St. Louis should grow ever come from anyway? I live here because it's the run-down, rustic, real town that it is.

I have an idea. Let's declare the whole town eminate domain, ration out property values, move out and rebuild somewhere on the NASA easement at NSTL in the aluminum dust fallout. Then we can all get jobs hustling cards, drugs, and prostitutes after they bulldoze the whole run-down town and improve it with new casinos, hotels and parking lots.

Did you notice they already started? Last week they cut back all the live oaks on Main Street to bring more power down to the waterfront to light up those fabulous floating ferris wheels.

I guess the trees would have interfered with the view of the big neon flashing signs, too. You know Little Las Vegas doesn't need live oaks in the way of progress.

Mississippi— A state of litigation?

Business and industry, more and more, seem to be becoming fodder for liability lawsuits in Mississippi—a trend that could endanger jobs that are already difficult to create.

The paper industry—one of the most promising spots in Mississippi's economic advancement—is the latest to come under fire.

Literally thousands of lawsuits have been filed, or are being filed, against companies in the industry by plaintiffs claiming injury because of exposure to dioxin.

Although the paper industry in Mississippi has met or even bettered state and federal regulations on dioxin, and scientists have recently said harmful effects of the chemical have been overstated, the lawsuits continue to come.

The sequence of events in Mississippi in these cases is troubling and documents the problem.

Last year one plaintiff was awarded damages as a result of exposure to dioxin. Advertisements soon appeared, soliciting additional plaintiffs for dioxin-related cases.

Meanwhile, the paper industry continues to quietly go about its business of cleaning up the environment and complying with state and federal dioxin rules. In some cases, dioxin generation has been reduced by as much as 99 percent.

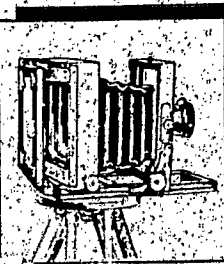

If thousands of lawsuits can be generated against the paper industry while it plays by the rules, what can we expect next? Which industry is next in line for such an assault?

There is a danger that Mississippi, positioning itself as the "State of Change," could, instead, become the "State of Litigation."

And, when that happens and new industries are scared off, there may be no businesses to sue.

For the most part, business in Mississippi, in every category, recognizes the need for a balance between environmental safeguards and economic development.

Hopefully, balance can be restored to the judicial system.

Hancock County could be liable for up to $8 million in damages if all lawsuits filed by survivors of eight deep hole drowning victims are successful. The hole, located about 1,500 feet offshore from Gulfside Assembly Center and Buccaneer State Park, is a crater-like cavity 500 feet by 800 feet which was apparently created in a 1966 Corps' dredging project forming a sand beach from Ballentine Street in Bay St. Louis to Bayou Cadet. Officials report some 25 people have drowned in the hole during the last few years with the underwater crater claiming its latest victim, a Shidell man, May 31.

Disaster-affected farmers given planting options

Abnormal rainfall in Pearl River and Hancock counties could cause a substantial amount of cropland to be left unplanted this year.

The excessive moisture has kept many farmers from planting their crops, said Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS Office.

To assist disaster-affected farmers, ASCS authorized special emergency planting options for counties that have been declared a disaster area by the Secretary of Agriculture or the President.

"We will allow eligible producers to withdraw from their acreage reduction program contracts, and will waive liquidated damages," Gennin said. The farmers may plant any crop in any quantity, except for other contracted crops.

To allow farm program participants more time to designate acreage as having been prevented from planting, or as conserving use for payment, ASCS will extend the certification date.

According to Gennin, the Emergency Feed Program and Emergency Conservation Program may also be available if the county has received approval to implement these programs.

The ASCS official said several options are already available to producers in counties that have not been declared a disaster area. Nationally, these measures include prevented planted credit, failed acreage reports, and under certain conditions, 0/92, 50/92 deficiency payments.

Farmers who are in need of disaster assistance should contact the local ASCS office for further details of the new disaster options and other relief measures.

Harold Grissom to run for district attorney

Harold Grissom of Long Beach recently announced his candidacy for district attorney for Hancock, Harrison and Stone counties.

Grissom received a degree in business administration from Mississippi State University, and his legal education from the University of Mississippi.

After receiving his law degree, he became a member of the Mississippi Prosecutor's Association and worked as assistant district attorney in Hancock, Harrison, Stone, as well as Lauderdale, Clark, Wayne and Kemper counties. For the past few years, he has been practicing with the law firm of Compton, Crowell & Hewitt in Biloxi.

He and his family are active members of First United Methodist Church in Gulfport.

Grissom said, "The future is in our hands and during the next few months, I ask for your support as we set out to make this tri-county district a better and safer place to live."

HAROLD GRISSOM

He added that a formal announcement of his candidacy will come in July.

Mitchell runs for District 5 supervisor

Roy L. Mitchell of Jourdan River Shores recently announced his candidacy for supervisor, District 5.

Mitchell has 20 years of work experience in the construction business and as foreman of road and drainage crews. He also served the U.S. in Korea as a member of the 25th Infantry.

He said, "As supervisor of District 5 in Hancock County, I will bring a wealth of leadership and operational knowledge to the board. My good working relationship with the work crews, along with my unwavering concern for their well-being and satisfaction, are but two of the many qualities that I possess."

"In addition, my knowledge of the county's economic affairs and my cost-effective approach to resource utilization provides me with the day-to-day management experience that is required to be an effective supervisor."

If elected, I will work for the people of Hancock County, especially those who reside in District 5. I will strive to improve service and work to designate District 5 as the best in Hancock County. To accomplish this, I will dedicate myself to responding to the concerns of the District 5 constituents throughout my entire term as supervisor and not just at election time.

"I have been a steadfast servant for the people and I now seek to increase that service capacity as supervisor."

Poems wanted for contest

Poems are now being accepted for entry in Sparrowgrass Poetry Forum's new "Distinguished Poet Awards" poetry contest. Cash prizes totaling $1,000 will be awarded, including a $500 grand prize. The contest is free to enter.

Poets may enter one poem only, 20 lines or less, on any subject, in any style. Contest closes Sept. 30, 1991, but poets are encouraged to send their work as soon as possible, since poems entered in the contest also will be considered for publication in the Summer 1992 edition of Treasured Poems of America, a hardcover anthology.

Anthology purchase may be required to insure publication, but is not required to enter or win the contest. Prize winners will be notified by Nov. 30, 1991.

Poem should be sent to Sparrowgrass Poetry Forum, Inc., Dept. J, 203 Diamond Street, Sistersville, WV 26175.

NAACP to hold BABY contest

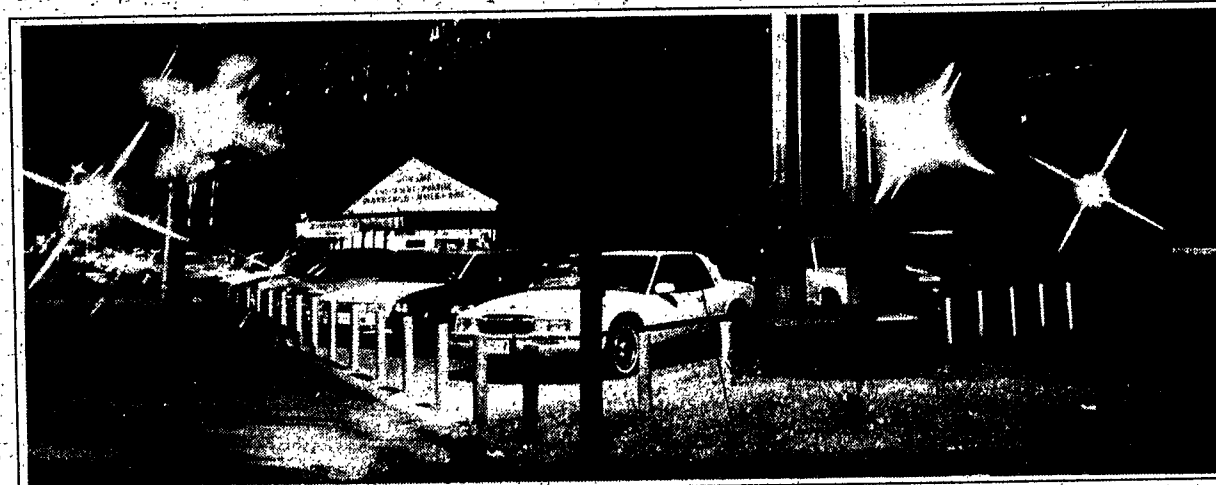

The Hancock County chapter of the NAACP is planning a "Freedom BABY Contest."

The contest's theme is Be A Better Youth for Freedom. It is open to children from two months to six years old, and is divided into two categories: two months to three years, and four to six years.

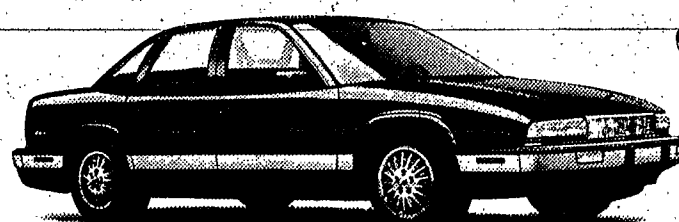

The event will include talent performances and modeling by participants. Prizes and gifts will be awarded.

Churches, organizations and individuals are invited to sponsor and register a child.

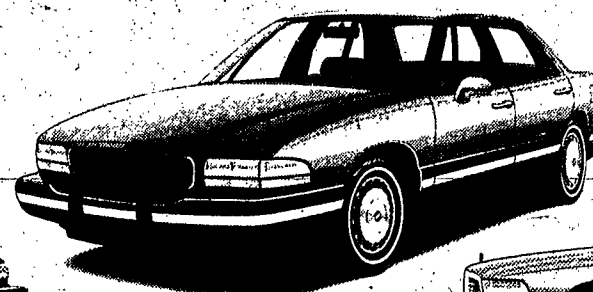

For registration forms and more information, call Elaine Barnes at 467-4939 or Shakira Shabazz at 466-2929.

applause when he told the society members he had threatened to fire every member of the local tree-trimming crew if they touched the cypress in front of Ruth's Bakery.

He went on to say the company was looking at the possi-upgrading.

He answered several audience questions and heard a number of opinions about how concerns could best be addressed.

One society member asked if the trimming crew was allowed explaining this and claimed there was no door tag on the building. Mrs. Brown, who is not a Historical Society member, further stated that the limbs cut back to the trunk by the trimming crew were not dead at the time, but alive.

One society member thanked the power company officials for the reshaping job the trimming crew did after their initial cutting job left "a horrible mess." She said the crew did a great job in shaping the tree, and she was very grateful for their efforts.

One man suggested the company install taller power poles so the lines would not be near the trees. Wescovich said they would take it into consideration.

Other suggestions were that the company teach the trimming crews to properly identify the trees before they begin trimming so that they would not overtrim a tree protected under the city's tree ordinance; that the area to be trimmed should be surveyed before the work starts so the results will be aesthetically pleasing; and that more experienced trimmers be used for the protected trees.

Mrs. Brown, who was clearly upset about the work done on the "Landmark tree," voiced her anger more than once, prompting Ruth Thompson to state the opinion that the damage to the tree was surely not irreparable and with some shaping the appearance could again become acceptable. Wescovich agreed with Mrs. Thompson's statement.

After the question-and-answer session, Bay-Waveland Garden Club member Alyce Newkirk urged the society members to register their trees if they had not yet done so. She said the tree trimming crews are more cautious about cutting a tree that has a registration plaque on it.

She said and oak that is 36 inches in diameter or any tree of historic value can be registered.

Society historian Charles Gray said the Historical Society has tree registration forms available at the Kate Loblano house, and society members will be glad to help anyone who wants to register a tree measure it to check the diameter.

ARTIFACTS

A Russian journalist and winners of the recent Mississippi Institute of Arts and Letters Awards will be profiled on the next "ARTifacts" at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, June 26, on Mississippi ETV.

First, Yelena Khanga, a Russian journalist, will discuss her Mississippi roots. Her grandfather, Oliver John Golden, fled Yazoo County for the Soviet Union in an effort to escape racism. Khanga is currently researching a book on Soviet-American relations from the perspective of a black family.

Then, "ARTifacts" presents highlights of the 12th annual M.I.A.L. awards. This year's winners include Photographer Birney Imes II of Columbus, composer and Jackson native Samuel Jones, and Vicksburg native and former Jackson resident Ellen Gilchrist.

Explaining procedures

Hancock County Historical Society historian Charles Gray and president Larry Heller, left, listen along with other society members as Mississippi Power Company senior forester Terry Frierson and engineering technician Maurice "Poochie" Wescovich answer questions about recent tree-trimming done in preparation for a substation system-upgrading. (Echo staff photo by Traci Bonney) bility of putting a pole across the road and moving the power line to it so it would not interfere with the cypress.

Wescovich said the power company maintains one crew in Bay St. Louis year-round, but that additional crews were brought in to prepare the way for the substation system to go on private property to cut a tree when the owner was not present. Wescovich said the crew was supposed to put a tag on the door of the building so the owner would know work needed to be done.

Dorothy Brown, owner of the building that housed Angie's, entered the room as he was

She said this because Wescovich had just explained a company policy for tree trimming: when the crew encounters a dead limb, crew members are instructed to cut the dead limb back to the trunk.

Wescovich replied that if Mrs. Brown said she received no tag, he believed her.

Survey to assist state in promotion of exporting

The Mississippi Department of Economic and Community Development International Development Division is seeking to assist Mississippi manufacturers interested in international business opportunities. The goal is to help companies here at home profit in the global economy, bringing new export sales, jobs and investment to our state.

MDECD recently mailed surveys to more than 300 Mississippi companies involved in exporting. The four-page survey asks for such information as the company's current or potential export products, target markets, and interest in pursuing joint ventures with firms both at home and abroad.

This information will be entered into the MDECD database to assist manufacturers in identifying potential joint venture partners and overseas markets for their products.

"As a result of political and social changes around the world, new markets are opening, creating opportunities for Mississippi companies," said J. Mac Holladay, MDECD director.

"As a part of our international strategy, MDECD is dedicated to assisting Mississippi companies take advantage of these opportunities.

"We need current data so that we can help companies penetrate new international markets through trade leads, participation in trade shows and foreign business missions," said Holladay.

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katy
McGuire Caire

Blueberries and more blueberries top my shopping list this week, with tasty Mississippi-grown berries available at our area supermarkets and at the Farmer's Markets as well.

The bountiful crop, nearing its peak, is early this year; and, happily, blueberries, unlike some other Mississippi crops decimated or destroyed by the awful rainstorms, are enjoying a good year.

So, let's enjoy blueberries to the fullest; and raspberries, too, and strawberries, in their natural state or spilling over ice creams or sherberts or pound cake, for example. Let's cook 'em in cobblers or pies or muffins, also.

And, in the interest of good, healthful eating as well as good tasting treats, let's team the berries up at times with yogurt. From "The Stoneyfield Farm Yogurt Cookbook" (Camden House Publishing) comes this easily-made blueberry delight:

GREEK-STYLE

BLUEBERRY PIE

Unbaked pastry for a 9-inch pie shell (not rolled out)

1/2 cup finely chopped walnuts
3 Tbsp. honey
1 pkg. (8 oz.) cream cheese, softened at room temperature
2 Tbsp. lemon juice
1 Tbsp. grated lemon rind
1/4 tsp. ground allspice
1 cup plain yogurt
1 1/2 cups blueberries

Preheat oven to 450 degrees. Add the nuts to the pie crust dough. Roll out the dough, place in a 9-inch pie plate and bake for 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool.

Cream the honey and cheese together. Add the lemon juice, rind and allspice and blend. Fold in the yogurt gradually, then fold in the berries. Pour the filling into the crust and chill for 24 hours before serving. (Pie yields 6 to 8 servings)

(The second time I made this pie, I was in somewhat of a hurry, so omitted the nuts and used a "store-bought" pie shell. It was not quite as tasty! Think that I'll try it with raspberries next time.)

From the same cookbook, try this variation on the theme; quite fruity and not overly sweet:

BLUEBERRY YOGURT PIE

Crust:
1 1/4 cups graham-cracker crumbs
6 Tbsp. butter, melted
1/4 cup sugar

Filling:
3 large eggs
3/4 cup sugar
1 cup plain yogurt
2 cups fresh blueberries
Preheat oven to 325 degrees. For the crust, mix the crumbs, butter and sugar until well blended. Use the back of a spoon to press the mixture to the bottom and sides of a well-greased 10-inch pie plate, and refrigerate while preparing the filling. (Or use a ready-made graham crust.)

For the filling, stir together the eggs, sugar, yogurt until well blended. Fold in the blueberries. Pour filling into the crust and bake for 45 to 55 minutes. Cool and refrigerate until firm. (8 to 10 servings)

Bananas are a special item at the markets these days, as are peaches and melons, grapes and plums. In the vegetable department, there are so many delicious fresh vegetables that it's difficult to choose! I found garden fresh collard greens at one store, and scooped up a couple of bunches.

Eggplants, sweet potatoes, sweet Italian red onions found their place in my shopping basket as well. The greens and sweet potatoes I'll team with one of the smoked picnics (bargain-priced) and the ham leftover will simplify a few other meals this coming week.

Other specials this week include light calf cuts, pork quarter loins and chops, as well as beef sirloin tip roasts and round steaks. Chicken breasts and breast quarters are also good buys.

HAM

(or Chicken or Turkey—NOODLE CASEROLE)
Preheat oven to 350 degrees
1/2 lb. fine noodles, cooked and drained

1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
2 can (4 oz.) mushrooms, drained
2 cups diced cooked ham or chicken or turkey
1/4 tsp. pepper
Salt, optional

Mix noodles with butter or margarine, and transfer to a shallow 2-quart casserole. In a bowl, combine mushrooms with ham or chicken or turkey, sprinkle pepper, and salt, if using, and place on top of noodles.

For the sauce:
1/4 butter or margarine
1/4 cup flour
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
2 cups chicken stock
1/2 cup grated fresh Parmesan cheese

1 cup grated Swiss cheese
Melt butter in a saucepan, blend in flour, salt and pepper. Add stock and cook, stirring frequently, until thick and smooth (5 minutes). Add Parmesan and mix well. Pour over first mixture, and top with Swiss cheese. Bake for 30 minutes. (6 servings)

Hot dog!

America's favorite baseball park refreshment takes a new twist

Batter Up! Baseball and hot dogs are two American favorites that continue to attract more fans every year.

During the baseball season, the number of hot dogs sold at ball parks average approximately 80 percent of the attendance, and on some occasions hot dog sales even outnumber the gate.

But, you don't have to be going to a ballgame to enjoy the best in hot dog cuisine. For example, the Big Leaguer, created in the test kitchens of The National Hot Dog & Sausage Council, Westchester, Ill., is a sub-sandwich the whole gang will cheer about.

The Catcher's Special gives the hot dog a barbecue twist, and the 10th Inning Pizza Pup combines the traditional tastes of hot dogs and pizza.

Or, you can improvise and create your own baseball legend by mixing types of cheeses and by substituting salad dressings and shredded vegetables for the traditional condiments.

Fondue buffs are sure to love the Batter Up! It's a selection of your favorite sausage, chunked and dipped in pancake batter, then quickly cooked and dipped in a honey mustard sauce. Great to serve while watching the game or to top off an evening after the game has ended.

CATCHER'S SPECIAL

(Yield: 8 Servings)

- 8 Hot Dogs
- 8 Hot Dog Buns, split and toasted
- 1 1/2 to 2 Cups BBQ sauce
- 1 Medium onion, thinly sliced

Combine BBQ sauce, sliced onions and hot dogs in large skillet. Cook gently over medium heat, covered for 8 to 10 minutes, or until dogs are heated through and onion is transparent. Serve in toasted buttered buns.

BIG LEAGUER

HOT DOGS!

(Yield: 6 to 8 Servings)

- 6 to 8 Hot Dogs, split lengthwise 3/4 through
- French bread, cut in half
- 4 Tablespoons melted margarine or butter
- 2 Cups shredded iceberg lettuce
- 1 Small onion, coarsely chopped
- 1/2 Cup salsa
- 3 to 4 slices pepper cheese

Brush each half French bread with melted margarine or butter. Toast under broiler until evenly browned. Reserve. (May toast on grill if desired).

In small bowl, add lettuce and onion. Toss to combine well. Using a french fry cutter, or pie crimper cut cheese slices into 1/2 inch serrated strips, or use triangle halves.

To build Big Leaguer:

Sprinkle lettuce and onion mixture over bottom half of toasted bread; place split hot dog diagonally across lettuce mixture—space approximately 3 inches apart; fill centers with 1 tablespoon salsa; and top with 2 strips or 1/2 triangle of pepper cheese.

To cook: Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. or covered grill according to manufacturer's directions. Using heavy duty aluminum foil, loosely wrap Big Leaguer sandwich in tent-like fashion. Place in oven to heat through for 12-15 minutes, during the final 5 minutes heat top half of bread. Unfold and add additional salsa, avocado or peppers, as desired. Top with remaining bread. Cut into individual, size servings.

10TH INNING

PIZZA PUPS

- 8 Hot Dogs, cut 3/4's through
- 8 Hot Dog buns, split
- 4 Tablespoons melted margarine or butter
- 1 Tablespoon chopped fresh oregano. OR
- 2 Teaspoons dried oregano
- 1 Small onion, chopped
- 1 Cup shredded mozzarella cheese
- 8-10 Pepperoni slices, cut into 1/4's
- 1/2 Cup pizza sauce
- Add oregano seasoning to melted margarine or butter to blend. Brush on top and bottom halves of split buns. Toast until golden. In small bowl, mix together onion, cheese and pepperoni pieces. Toss well.

Place hot dogs on broiler pan and fill with approximately 1 tablespoon pizza sauce. Top with pepperoni-cheese mixture. Broil 10 inches from heat source until cheese melts, and hot dogs are heated through. Serve in oregano buttered toasted buns.

BATTER UP

(Sausage Fondue)

- Franks, Salami, Bologna Chub, Polish Sausage and cocktail franks, cut into bite-sized pieces
- 2 Cups vegetable oil
- 2 Sticks margarine or butter

Batter:

- 1-1/8 Cup pancake baking mix
- 1/2 Cup milk
- 1 Egg

Honey Mustard Sauce

(recipe below)

Maple Syrup

In saucepan on top of range, melt margarine and oil. Let cool, and skim milk solids from top. Pour into Fondue pot. Heat to 375 F.

In small mixing bowl, combine pancake mix, milk and whole egg. Beat with wire whisk until smooth and well blended. Dip sausage bites into pancake batter. let drain.

Cook in fondue pot until heated and evenly browned.

Coat with favorite sauce.

HONEY-MUSTARD SAUCE

(Yield: 2 Cups)

- 1/4 Cup prepared horseradish mustard
- 1/4 Teaspoon ground cumin
- 1 Tablespoon flour
- 1 Cup chicken broth
- 2 Egg yolks
- Dash of salt
- 1/2 Cup honey

In saucepan, combine mustard, cumin and flour. Blend until smooth. Gradually add chicken stock, beating constantly with wire whisk. In small bowl, beat egg yolks with salt until pale and creamy. Add to stock mixture. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Remove from heat and add honey. Serve warm, or store in refrigerator and serve cold.

OTHER IDEAS

Bases Loaded: Serve mini-bites of hot dogs on dinner rolls. Cut split franks in half. Load bun as a Reuben with sauerkraut, Swiss cheese and 1,000 Island dressing; corn relish and mustard; baked beans or any favorite topping—or combo.

Dug-Out Special: Split hot dog in a bun filled with your favorite slaw or grated garden vegetables.

Lead-Off Double: Broiled hot dogs filled with two types of cheeses.

Pitcher's Mound dog: Hot dog served with everything! Mounded high.

SouthPaw: Hot dogs will with Southwestern Texas Chili.

Comiskey Park Dog:

Texas teenagers undertake repairs

The gift of service

Texas Methodist teens volunteer labor at Bay church

BY T. H. (DOC) TOUPS

The Valena C. Jones Memorial United Methodist Church in Bay St. Louis received some much needed help last week from the Memorial Drive United Methodist Church in Houston, Texas.

The Bay St. Louis congregation's Sycamore Street church buildings were in need of substantial repairs, which their budget could not accommodate.

While the main church building required limited attention, their primary problem was an historic 125-year-old frame building on church property.

Valena C. Jones' pastor, the Reverend Bobby Dailey, had dreams of turning the structure into a church office and nursery, though after considering his budget and the massive repairs needed, he began to think that they might have to tear the old building down. While unusable, it could have presented a safety hazard and had to be given attention of some sort.

The pastor's dilemma was resolved when the Houston congregation offered to 'adopt' the old building as its 1991 Summer Workcamp project.

Their workcamp program marshalls the energy of the congregation's teenage members to assist other churches.

Scores of Memorial Drive United Methodist Church teens, carrying hammers, saws and other tools of the builders' trade converged on Bay St. Louis last week to begin the restoration project.

Armed with a 25-item list of needed repairs, the teens completed, in five days, a task which the Reverend Dailey thought he might never see accomplished.

New siding was installed, a deck with handrails was added to the building's rear, a new porch went up on the front, plumbing was repaired, paint was applied, walls were fixed and scores of other items were tended to.

When I spoke with the Reverend Dailey on the last day of repair work, he seemed to regard the renovated building with a mixture of delight and amazement. "It's great," he said, "We just can't thank them enough."

The Houston teens spent their last day on the Coast visiting Ship Island and enjoying a well-deserved rest.

(Photos by Thomas H. (Doc) Troups)

Stephen Maida, Kelly Merryman, Candice Hamilton and Kim Tadros operate a power saw during the renovation project.

Literacy Program hosts potluck dinner

Clementine Williams, principal at Pearlington Elementary School and member of the Hancock County Library System Board of Trustees, was special guest at a potluck dinner May 23 for the Hancock County Literacy Program.

Prima Wusnack, library system director, presented students with certificates of achievement for time spent on basic skills studies, ESL (English as a second language) and reading. Tutors also received certificates of recognition for the hours they donate teaching students.

The first edition of the Literacy Program Cookbook was also presented each student and tutor present. The cookbook was compiled of recipes contributed by students and tutors.

Area businesses and merchants contributed food or donated promotional items. They were Ruth's Bakery, The Sun Herald, Office Supply Company, High Speed Copy Centers, Coast Electric Power Association, Memorial Hospital at Gulfport, Mississippi Power Company, Hancock Bank, Hancock Medical Center, Pizza Hut, The Reef Restaurant, the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and Gulf Oaks Hospital.

The Literacy Program is sponsored by the Hancock County Library System, and is open to anyone who wants to learn basic skills (mathematics, language and reading), to prepare for the GED examination or learn and improve their English and reading skills.

Tutors and students also work at the various branches of the library in Waveland and Kiln.

More information about the Literacy Program is available by calling Ruth-Krebs at 467-5282.

Film offered during reading program

Darby O'Gill and the Little People will be the featured attraction this week during the Hancock County Library System's 1991 summer reading program. This summer's theme is "Sizzling Summer Celebration."

The film will be shown at the Kiln Library on Tuesday, June 25 at 1:30 p.m., at the City-County Public Library on Wednesday, June 26 at 10 a.m. and at 1:30 p.m., and at the Waveland Library on Thursday, June 27 at 10:30 a.m.

The summer reading program is designed for children grades 1-8 to encourage them to enjoy reading.

Further information on the program is available by contacting Prima Wusnack at the City-County Library at 467-5282, Sandra Ladner, Kiln Library, 255-1724, or Karen Peoples, Waveland Library, 467-9240.

Dance, raffle will benefit Johnston's medical expenses

Friends and family of Mrs. Mary Johnston are hosting a benefit dance and drawdown with a raffle of $1,000.

Mrs. Johnston is a cancer patient, and the benefit is to assist her in payment of her surgery and chemotherapy treatments.

She is a resident of Hancock County. Her husband, Robert Johnston, is a retired employee of Hancock County.

A drawdown will be held for $1,000. The last five names drawn from the pot will have the option of splitting the pot or going for it all. The winner or winners need not be present.

The dance will be Friday, June 28, from 8 p.m. to midnight at the Hancock County Civic Center on Longfellow Road. Music will be by Keith Hoda and the Country Sounds along with Tommy Moran and the Crew. Cost will be $15 per couple. BYOB and set-ups will be made available.

For tickets call Bobby Boudin at 467-7413 or Sam Cuevas at 255-3367.

CLUBS, AUXILIARIES

American Legion Auxiliary Post 77

The June 4 meeting of Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray American Legion Post 77 Auxiliary was well attended.

President Janice Carver opened the meeting; Eleanor Marsh and Elaine Lytell advanced the colors; and Mary Caillier led the opening prayer.

After all members recited the Pledge of Allegiance and the Auxiliary Preamble, Kristie Pearce was escorted to the podium by sergeant-at-arms Eleanor Marsh.

She was given a $200 check to help pay her expenses to the Space Center camp at Bellhaven College in Jackson.

After various committee members gave their reports, election ballots were passed out and voting began.

The results were:

President, Lee Ann Sauls; first vice president, Shirley Williams; second vice president, Emelda Nugent; secretary, Catherine Schmitt and treasurer, Isabel Crais.

Historian, Helena Coleman; chaplain, Mary Caillier; sergeant-at-arms, Earline Ruhr and color bearer, Elaine Lytell.

Before the closing prayer, Terri Green was congratulated and given a round of applause for her appointment as Waveland post-mistress. Installation of officers will take place in July.

Gulf Coast Writers Association

Local prize-winning poet-playwright, Carl Danna will present an evening program, 'The Structure of Successful Plays' for the Gulf Coast Writers Association on June 27, 7:15 p.m. in the auditorium at William Carey College on the Coast, 1856 Beach Drive, Gulfport. The public is invited.

Danna is a lively, warm speaker whose 29 years teaching English and journalism have helped shape his interesting monologs.

Danna is active in Gulf Coast community theatres, including The Waveland Players, Gulfport Little Theatre, Center Stage, and Riviera Productions. His multi-talented personality lends itself to many wonderful performances, the latest of which was 'The Interviewer' in 'The Shadow Box,' presented by the Bay St. Louis Little Theater. He is often called upon for public readings of his entertaining poetry.

He has written more than 20 plays, winning first prize in the Writers' Unlimited competition and third prize in the Tennessee State competition.

Danna makes his home in Pass Christian, but is active in community affairs and conservation Coastwide. He has been the treasurer of the GCWA for two years.

GCWA invites everyone to enjoy this evening and to attend their regular meetings on the fourth Thursday of every month at the William Carey College Auditorium at 7 p.m.

Anyone who writes or who would like to write is welcome to attend.

Pass Christian VFW Post 5931 Auxiliary

The Ladies Auxiliary of Pass Christian Post 5931 VFW met Thursday, June 13 at the Post on East Scenic Drive.

Chairmen's reports were presented. Lois Holton reported $775 was raised at a recent salad, bake and what-not sale for the cancer relief fund.

Liz Callahan and Norma Cantrell told of birthday parties during May at Dixie White House Nursing Home and Miramar Nursing Home. Several members helped at the parties.

A luncheon was held at the Post for 25 patients from the VA Hospital in Gulfport. A bingo was sponsored at the VA Hospital on Sunday, May 26.

Alma Ruspoli, Buddy Poppy chairman, reported $420 was collected from the sale of Buddy Poppies. She presented certificates to members who helped during the year with the project.

Pass Christian state convention will be in Jackson June 28, 29 and 30. Delegates will attend. Delegates and alternates were elected to attend the national convention in New Orleans in August.

The president reported for Catherine McDonald, who was ill, that an American flag will be presented to Miramar Nursing Home.

Conductress Ella Shaw draped the chapter's charter in memory of two members who died in May, Elizabeth Hopton and Vivian Thibodeaux. Chaplain Ann Latino read the prayer.

The next meeting will be Thursday, July 11 at 7 p.m.

Harvest Time to host July 4 picnic

Harvest Time Church will host a July 4 celebration at the Pino residence in Kiln.

Activities include food, music, fun and baptisms. The event is open to the public. For more information, call 255-2097.

Pedal plane winner

Harold Doll, right, presents Ruth Thompson with the Christen Eagle Pedal Plane she won from a drawing held during the Great Gulf Coast Air Show recently. The plane was a project executed by the 479th Chapter of the Experimental Aircraft Association. Doll said the plane's production was a learning project for the chapter members, who used several crafts — wood-working, metalwork and painting, among others — to build the pedal plane. He added that those interested in joining the chapter may call him at 466-3800. (Echo staff photo by Traci Bonney)

Reflections

On Life

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

Dad stands tall

David Robinson, all 7'-1" and 260 pounds of him, the toast of the San Antonio Spurs, is an imposing physical specimen and altogether impressive as one of the premier centers in the grueling world of professional basketball.

In just two years, he has established himself among the most talented and intimidating players in the entire league.

Asked recently by a newsman whether he had a weird feeling when he discovered that he had grown taller than his father, David answered without hesitation:

"I have never been taller than my father."

Breathless for a moment, the newsman reacted with the same admiration which he shows whenever he tells the story.

It is a strange but marvelous commentary on human life that, the older and weaker a father grows, the more powerful and more imposing he becomes in the eyes of his children who are daily surpassing him in physical strength and, perhaps, stature as well.

An agile, prodigious giant such as David Robinson grows physically bigger than his father at an early age. There is no doubt that any physical contest between the two would be no contest at all. At a mere whim, David could have brushed his father aside even as a gangling teen-ager.

Yet, a power far superior to any physical power and ever-present to David constantly tore him away from the very thought of doing any violence against his father. While he towered above the man responsible for his birth, he remained fully aware at all times that his father was taller than he.

Such a wonderful concept of "father" deserves a very wide transmission around the world. It pouts brawn, which is the forte of the young, in proper perspective with spiritual strength, which should be the province and legacy of our elders, particularly our parents.

"I have never been taller than my father" is a reality in all those father-child relationships where the daughter or son, despite the driving instinct toward independence, respects and obeys the parent who transmitted God's own life.

Unfortunately, there is a sad note in this heartwarming picture of father, in that all too many fathers do not fit the make a baby, but not every man can be a father.

Another sad note is frequently struck by the children, many of whom do not feel, as does David Robinson, that they were never taller than their father.

In some cases, the sadness is aggravated by the fact that "...the older and weaker a father grows, the more powerful and imposing he becomes in the eyes of his children..."

portrait.

Many do not stand tall because they are petty, selfish, immature, irresponsible, incompetent, insecure, avaricious and, at times, downright malicious.

Some fathers do not fill the bill because they themselves are children, not only unwed in many cases, but thoroughly immature and unprepared to be fathers. The words of Malcolm X ring in our ears: "Any man can their father has given them reason to believe that he is not taller than they.

Since Jesus is our brother and since his Father is also our Father, it is an incredible privilege and comfort to know, respect and serve God through the precious human being whom he fingered to father our mortal bodies on earth. Thank you, precious God, for giving us our earthly fathers.

Saltillo donation

Gospel singers homecoming planned

All singers and lovers of gospel music are invited to attend Gospel Singers of America Inc.'s 35th annual homecoming June 30 at 951 E. Scenic Drive, Pass Christian. "Pack a dinner basket and join us from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.," said Erin Porter, president.

Special singers will include the students, quartets and trios now attending GSA school's 1991 three-week session and other visiting groups. The day's program will be free to all.

Singing will be under the direction of Rev. Bobby Burnett and Videt Polk.

Wheel Horse Power Bags Tough Grass.

In this area, we grow a lot of tough grass. Wide leaf grasses, like St. Augustine and Bermuda, are difficult to mow and difficult to kill. But Wheel Horse tractors are built to do it. Even the smallest Wheel Horse tractors have the weight, horsepower and engine capability to handle tough grass.

New Wheel Horse Super Bagger mowers feature high lift blades and vacuum action to pull grass up, clean, even cuts and suck up clippings. When you team them up with Wheel Horse Power, you've got what it takes to handle any kind of grass—quickly and easily.

Visit us soon to see the complete line of rugged, dependable Wheel Horse tractors and ask to see our new Super Bagger mowers. Cut your tough grass down to size.
